—We hope the next time the Eureka tar-bucket brigade indulges in a "little pleasantry" of the Paroni style, that they will strap the Taylor mail on their victim's back and start him this way. THE CONCERT.

The Musical Treat of Tuesday Evening.
The concert of Tuesday evening promises to be a very brilliant affair. In order that the public may have some idea of the number in the Company the APPEAL has called some press notices descriptive of all the performers:

The Misses Joran.—The brilliant success achieved by the gifted trio at their first concert was more than confirmed at the second; at the third the audience overflowed into the street.—Sydney Telegraph.

At the conclusion of the concert, Lord Carrington advanced to the platform to congratulate and shake hands with the brilliant trio.—Sydney Globe.

Lulu.—She played a brilliant transcription of "Weber's Invitation to the Waltz," by Tausig, the Polish composer, whose extraordinary execution on the piano has rarely been surpassed.—Mail.

In this performance we recognize a genuine artist—a young girl of the pure feeling and the most conscientious regard for the beauties of the work placed before her. Her playing is distinguished for refinement of expression.—Argus.

Pauline.—This young lady is familiar with all the technique of the violin, bows with vigor, and produces a broad, pure tone. She belongs to the modern romantic school. Prolonged applause from all parts of the house greeted her.—N. Y. Herald.

Pauline, the violinist, selected for her solo, "Wienawski Polonaise," a favorite concert piece among violinists of the first rank, and a severe test of skill, in which she acquitted herself admirably, playing with faultless intonation, artistic expression, and command of the resources of the instrument.—Melbourne Leader.

Elise.—The most astonishing number of the whole evening, however, was the performance of Hummel's concert in A minor by such a mere child as Elise. It is no exaggeration to say that this was relatively one of the most marvelous exhibitions of skill ever heard in Melbourne.—Melbourne Telegraph.

The most brilliant affair of last night's concert was the singing of Mrs. Fleissner-Lewis. The solo in Schubert's "Der Allmacht," with full orchestra of fifty musicians and chorus, fully displayed the wonderfully dramatic power of her beautiful voice. Without sacrificing any of its sweetness, it was clearly heard above both orchestra and chorus in all parts of our Immense Music Hall. But the crowning success of this lady was the rendition of Beethoven's "Ah, Perfido!" To sing this aria well has been the ambition of famous prima donne. It requires great power of interpretation, and at times an intensely dramatic style. Mrs. Fleissner-Lewis was not found wanting, and her performance last evening certainly places her in the foremost rank of the best vocalists of this country.—Cincinnati Gazette.

The programme will be published Tuesday morning.

The Mitchell-Sullivan Fight.

CHANTILLY, March 10.—The fight between Sullivan and Mitchell resulted in a draw after 39 rounds had been fought—time, 3 hours and 11 minutes. The fight was a desperate one, and both men received black eyes. Mitchell improved at the finish, but the referee declared it a draw.

Racing to-day.

There will be a trotting race at Sweeney's track to-day. Henry Bath matches his horse Ben against Clifton owned by Pete Musgrove. The match is half mile best three in five for $40. There is a little outside betting on the result and some other races will be made up on the track.

THE INDIAN RESERVATIONS.

Senator Stewart Wants a Portion of them Open to the Whites.

The following letter has been addressed by Senator Stewart to W. E. Miller, Secretary of the Interior:

Hon. W. E. Miller, Sir:—Enclosed find copy of a memorial of the Legislature of Nevada, adopted at its last session, in regard to the Walker Lake Indian Reservation. In addition to what is stated in the memorial I have to say, that Walker Lake, which is included within the reservation, is about thirty miles long, surrounded on all sides by arid and desert land, except on the North where the Walker River flows into it. There is a considerable body of land on river bottom North of the lake which can be irrigated, a portion of which is used by the Indians for farming purposes. The Carson & Colorado Railroad passes through this reservation and follows the Northern and Eastern sides of the lake at Hawthorne, which is situated four or five miles South of the South end of the lake, and thence to the Southern part of the State.

The lake is well stocked with fish and furnishes a sufficient supply of fish food for the Indians and the white inhabitants of the vicinity. The whites, however, are not allowed to use the lake for any purpose, either for navigation or fishing.

No person would be injured if this lake were thrown open to the use of the public. On the contrary, it would be a public benefit if a large part of the reservation were abandoned. There is no reason for including in the reservation barren mountains, which are valuable only for minerals, and the South end of the lake, which the Indians do not use. All that part of the reservation South of a line drawn East and West five miles South of the mouth of the river ought to be thrown open to the public. What would be left would include all the Indians ever have or ever will occupy.

The reservation was created by Executive Order. I recommend the limitation of the reservation as above suggested.

Pyramid Lake Indian Reservation also excludes the whites from supplying themselves with the fish from that lake. It is unreasonable and unnecessary to retain the whole of Pyramid Lake in the reservation. The reservation was also created by Executive Order, and such portion of it as does not interfere with the Indians should be thrown open to the public, but I am not prepared to say just what portion should be abandoned. I would suggest that an examination be made and such portion abandoned as will not interfere with the Indians.

The relations between the whites and Indians in Nevada are more friendly than in any other part of the United States. The Indians depend upon the whites for employment and, as a general rule, for support, and they will not object to these changes in their reservations if influenced by the whites. But whether they object or not there is no good reason why these reservations should not be cut down.
